Dear Don:

Last October you sent us information and a newspaper clipping related to the above named individual. At that time it indicated that he had been arrested for child sexual abuse of both boys and girls.

We have not heard from you since that time and wondered if any legal action had taken place which would help us to close this file. We certainly want to have the file closed so that we have a complete case and all the information we need for refusing registration should an attempt be made at a later time.

Please help us to collect the information necessary. If we may be of help in any way do not hesitate to contact us.

Dear Chief:

We need your help as I mentioned to you at the Explorer Police Academy last week.

I need to determine the disposition of the DONALD J. KIMBER case. Please refer to the enclosed newspaper clipping.

If Mr. Kimber was found guilty we would also need something in writing to backup the charges. The National Council would then prevent Mr. Kimber from ever registering again.

Thank you for your assistance.

Sexual abuse case shocks Wolcott residents

By LIZ WILLEN
Courant Staff Writer

WOLCOTT — Those who know old J. Kimber, a 41-year-old former three-term councilman, call him honest, intelligent and articulate.

It is a shock to those people that he ended to police Friday on sexual abuse charges. He appeared in Superior Court in Waterbury on two counts of fourth-degree sexual assault and five counts of risk of injury impairing the morals of children.

"This just does not make any sense to me," said Town Clerk Elaine King. "I have known Kimber for eight years. He has a 9-year-old son and a 11 baby he adores. I just don't see how he could do this."

An affidavit prepared by police to support an arrest warrant for Kimber says he is molesting three teenagers and two girls — one 12 and one 14. The incidents occurred as early as August.

Court documents also say Kimber collected pornography and had an alias linking him to mailing lists of convicted pedophiles and a West Coast child-pornography ring.

"He was known as a fine person and an excellent councilman," Wolcott Mayor Edward Wilensky said Monday. "Most people who know him hold him in high esteem. There was even some talk that he might run for mayor. I'll tell you, we're all shocked."

The affidavit also says some parents raised questions in 1980 about Kimber's conduct as a scoutmaster. "During the meetings, Kimber would talk dirty to them and show them pornography books," court documents say.

Families of two more children between the ages of 9 and 13 have complained to police about Kimber since his arraignment Friday, Wolcott Lt. Joseph Forte said Monday.

The arrest resulted from a 10-month investigation that began after a relative of Kimber's came forward and said he had molested her over a three-year period that ended about 15 years ago. "Other kids have been victims and there may be other charges," Forte said.

Kimber has been released on a $10,000 bond and plans to enter a not guilty plea during a court appearance next Monday, his lawyer, Timothy C. Moynahan, said. Kimber could not be reached for comment Monday.

A salesman for Proctor and Gamble, Kimber had been a Webelos scoutmaster and a three-term councilman in Wolcott and had been running again for council before moving to Southbury last month. The family was forced to move by the need for a larger house, King said.

For 15 years, Kimber lived on the shores of Lake Hitchcock in Wolcott, and he once served as president of the Hitchcock Lake Association.

Since Kimber's arrest, families of two children who say Kimber molested them also have come forward with information, Forte said. "It's been very tough on the families, but many of them are prepared to go to trial," he said.

Forte said a U.S. postal inspector has told police that Kimber uses a Hartford post office box to receive child pornography.

Forte credited Kimber's relative for her efforts to reveal Kimber's activities. "She waited 15 years to come forward, probably because she was embarrassed and emotionally scarred," he said.

No charges against Kimber in connection with those activities can be lodged now because of the statute of limitations.

Court documents accuse Kimber of molesting five people. Two are 17-year-old males, and one is an 18-year-old male. They told police Kimber grabbed or attempted to grab them.

Another victim, a 14-year-old girl, told police Kimber put his hands inside her shirt and skirt. A fifth victim was a 12-year-old girl, police said.

State negotiates plea bargain

Former Wolcott man may avoid jail in molestation case

By JACK EWING
Courant Staff Writer

WATERBURY — Donald J. Kimber, a former Wolcott town councilman and scoutmaster who was accused of molesting children, will not spend time in prison if a Superior Court judge approves a deal worked out by attorneys in the case.

At a March 25 hearing, Judge Anne C. Dranginis will consider a recommendation by prosecutors that Kimber, 42, be given a seven-year suspended sentence and five years' probation. As part of the plea bargain, Kimber last week pleaded no contest to one count of risk of injury to a minor. He also will be required to seek counseling if Dranginis accepts the plea bargain.

Patricia King, deputy assistant state's attorney, said she agreed to the plea bargain last week after some parents decided they did not want their children to testify. There also were questions whether some of the allegations involved criminal activity, she said.

"Some of the conduct was inappropriate, to say the least, but it was in that gray area between inappropriate and a crime," King said Monday.

Kimber's attorney, Timothy C.

Moynahan of Waterbury, called the one count of risk of injury to a minor a "substantial reduction" from the original charges.

When he was arrested in September, Kimber was charged with two counts of fourth-degree sexual assault and five counts of risk of injury.

A police affidavit said Kimber molested three teenage boys and two girls, one 12 and one 14. The investigation of the three-term councilman began in 1986 after a relative, now an adult, told police that Kimber had molested her over a three-year period that ended about 15 years ago.

The police investigation linked Kimber to alleged sexual abuse of children over a period of at least 25 years, authorities said.

As a scoutmaster, Kimber would "talk dirty" during meetings held at his house and would show the youngsters pornography, police said.

The allegations were doubly shocking to the Waterbury suburb of 13,560 because Kimber — who also was president of a neighborhood organization — was very well-known and because it had been less than a year since the sentencing of Roger Niland, a former elementary school art teacher, who pleaded guilty to 20 counts of risk of injury to 20 children.

Niland was sentenced to a year in prison and five years' probation.

Wolcott Mayor Edward S. Wilensky said that, in contrast to the "tremendous furor" surrounding the Niland case, reaction to Kimber's plea bargain has been muted.

Media coverage has been less intense; most people do not know who the victims are; and the number of children involved was smaller, Wilensky said.

Of the plea bargain, Wilensky said, "Maybe in a situation like this it's the best thing." Noting that Kimber has a wife and two children, Wilensky said, "A stiffer sentence would now take him away from his family."

Moynahan said Kimber is working but would not say where. At the time of his arrest he was a salesman for Proctor & Gamble Co. Kimber plans to remain in Southbury, where he moved shortly before his arrest, Moynahan said. He had begun counseling on his own before the plea bargain was worked out, Moynahan said.

Wilensky said he is relieved the case appears to be resolved.

"It's something the community does not like, does not want and does not need," he said.

Kimber Enters Guilty Plea To One Charge

By ART BLEAU

WATERBURY — Donald J. Kimber, a former member of the Wolcott Town Council charged with sexually abusing five children over a period of years, pleaded no contest Wednesday to a single charge of risk of injury to a minor as part of a plea bargain for a suspended prison sentence.

Kimber, 41, who lived at 46 Lake St., Wolcott, before moving to Southbury in August, will be sentenced March 25 in Waterbury Superior Court.

The prosecution has agreed to recommend that Kimber receive a suspended sentence of seven years and five years of probation.

Judge Anne C. Dranginis told Kimber that if she accepts the plea bargain, she will set special conditions for his probation. Those will include that Kimber have no contact with the victims and that he undergo sex-offender treatment.

The former Hitchcock Lake Association president and scoutmaster had originally been charged with four counts of risk of injury to a minor and two counts of fourth-degree sexual assault involving five boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 13.

Assistant State's Attorney Patricia King said the prosecution struck the plea bargain, based on several factors, including the strength of the state's case, the willingness of the victims to testify and the quality of the evidence available to present to a jury.

According to the state, Wolcott police conducted a 10-month investigation and uncovered evidence linking Kimber to the sexual abuse of children over the past 25 years.

The investigation started after a relative of one of the victims told police in November that Kimber sexually abused her when she was 8 to 10 years old. She is now an adult.

Five teenagers — three boys and two girls — have given statements to police that Kimber molested them from 1983 to August 1987.

If Kimber had been convicted of all charges he faced, he could have faced for than 50 years in prison.

Kimber, who is married and has three children, served three terms as a Republican councilman.

Sexual abuse case shocks Wolcott residents

By LIZ WILLEN
Courant Staff Writer

WOLCOTT — Those who know Donald J. Kimber, a 41-year-old former three-term councilman, call him honest, intelligent and articulate.

It is a shock to those people that he surrendered to police Friday on sexual abuse charges. He appeared in Superior Court in Waterbury on two counts of fourth-degree sexual assault and five counts of risk of injury and impairing the morals of children.

"This just does not make any sense at all," said Town Clerk Elaine King, who has known Kimber for eight years. "He has a 9-year-old son and a small baby he adores. I just don't want to believe this."

An affidavit prepared by police to obtain an arrest warrant for Kimber accuses him of molesting three teenage boys and two girls — one 12 and one 14. The incidents occurred as recently as August.

Court documents also say Kimber collected pornography and had an alias linking him to mailing lists of convicted pedophiles and a West Coast child-pornography ring.

"He was known as a fine person and an excellent councilman," Wolcott Mayor Edward Wilensky said Monday. "Most people who know him hold him in high esteem. There was even some talk that he might run for mayor. I'll tell you, we're all shocked."

The affidavit also says some parents raised questions in 1980 about Kimber's conduct as a scoutmaster.

"During the meetings, Kimber would talk dirty to them and show them pornography books," court documents say.

Families of two more children between the ages of 9 and 13 have complained to police about Kimber since his arraignment Friday, Wolcott Lt. Joseph Forte said Monday.

The arrest resulted from a 10-month investigation that began after a relative of Kimber's came forward and said he had molested her over a three-year period that ended about 15 years ago.

"Other kids have been victims, and there may be other charges," Forte said.

Kimber has been released on a $10,000 bond and plans to enter a not guilty plea during a court appearance next Monday, his lawyer, Timothy C. Moynahan, said. Kimber could not be reached for comment Monday.

A salesman for Proctor and Gamble, Kimber had been a Webelos scoutmaster and a three-term councilman in Wolcott and had been running again for council before moving to Southbury last month. The family was forced to move by the need for a larger house, King said.

For 15 years, Kimber lived on the shores of Lake Hitchcock in Wolcott, and he once served as president of the Hitchcock Lake Association.

Since Kimber's arrest, families of two children who say Kimber molested them also have come forward with information, Forte said. "It's been very tough on the families, but many of them are prepared to go to trial," he said.

Forte said a U.S. postal inspector has told police that Kimber uses a Hartford post office box to receive child pornography.

Forte credited Kimber's relative for her efforts to reveal Kimber's activities. "She waited 15 years to come forward, probably because she was embarrassed and emotionally scarred," he said.

No charges against Kimber in connection with those activities can be lodged now because of the statute of limitations.

Court documents accuse Kimber of molesting five people. Two are 17-year-old males, and one is an 18-year-old male. They told police Kimber grabbed or attempted to grab them.

Another victim, a 14-year-old girl, told police Kimber put his hands inside her shirt and skirt. A fifth victim was a 12-year-old girl, police said.
